

Cheryl's Wanderers

Thursday morning: You awake, pull back the curtain. “ Oh! It’s warm and sunny; Foggy with a hint of rain in the air; The air is filled with mountain mist.” But up you get because you know that it’s Thursday and just before 9 am a mixed group of individuals will start to gather at the Yarra Centre in Yarra Junction. The great thing about Cheryl’s Wanderers group is that you will always find someone turns up to walk. We vary in number from six to over twenty.

Once the group has gathered a decision will be made about where we will go today. Yarra Junction is set in the end of the wonderful Yarra Valley and it offers us a variety of settings and terrains to walk each week. Some days we walk sections of the Yarra Junction township observing the changes in the gardens, houses and street-scapes. Others we use the Lilydale to Warburton Rail Trail and local roads. The walk route can fit the weather. At times we meet and then travel to other delightful areas close at hand.

There is always someone to talk to as you walk, I love this social element of the walks and have learnt so much about a wide range of issues and lots of local history from members who have lived within the valley for decades. So if you're up our way feel welcome to join us. You know when and where.
